

Learn the Recorder

The best way to learn about music is to play an instrument

*It's the easiest to play

*The easiest to learn

*The easiest to own

Enjoy the pleasure of playing beautiful music with others or even by yourself.

The recorder is very inexpensive to own, easily portable and most of all, so easy to learn to play. This ancient, yet modern instrument was played by kings, and today is played in small amateur groups and professional orchestras alike.

Your instructors are Richie and Elaine Henzler

TRIO WORKSHOP: Play trios with Richie and Elaine on Skype

These sessions are intend to feel like an in room rehearsal. We play two parts of the trio live while you play the missing part. Actual rehearsing takes place. Elaine selects repertoire from a wide variety of styles and participants are required to purchase the music. The class size is limited to 8 participants so each person gets personal attention.

We run two trio sessions on Sunday afternoons.

1. 2:30 - 4:00 pm est

2. 4:30 - 6:00 pm est

The sessions are 6 weeks long meeting every other Sunday

We are currently in the middle of our summer sessions. The Fall session will begin in September Watch here for dates and repertoire. The fee is $20 per session.

According to recent studies - music lessons have benefits long after lessons have stopped. Musical training improves the brain's ability to discern the components of sound. Skill in appreciating the subtle qualities of sound even against a noisy back-ground, is important not just for a child but also for older people. Those who play as they age preserve the auditory processing skills in their brains that control hearing and understanding. Playing a wind instrument improves: ability to focus, eye-hand coordination, promotes good breathing and breath control. Learning to play music is a highly recommended natural therapy by the Mayo Clinic Their studies show it can help people resolve conflicts, reduce stress, enhance mood, promote relaxation, reduce anxiety to mention just some of the positive effects.
